The Peugeot Expert has arrived at Gruppo Serratore, the official dealer, offering a fresh blend of payload capacity, maneuverability, and driver-focused technology that appeals to busy tradespeople and small-business owners alike. With its new front-end design and updated cabin, the Expert is positioned as a versatile workhorse for anyone who needs to move goods efficiently without sacrificing comfort. The current generation of the Expert focuses on three core areas that matter most on a daily job site: cargo space, drivability, and operational cost. Its maximum load volume exceeds 5 m³, while the payload rating sits around 1,300 kg, letting users transport pallets, tools, or bulk materials without cramming the interior. The cab retains a high driving position and large windshield, which improves visibility in tight city lanes and on construction yards. Under the hood, the van offers a range of efficient gasoline and diesel engines that meet

Euro 6 emissions standards. The most common 1.5-litre BlueHDi delivers roughly 115 hp and a fuel consumption close to 5 L/100 km, translating into lower operating costs for fleets that log many kilometres each month. Additionally, advanced stop-start technology and selective catalytic reduction help keep running expenses in check. Tradespeople who juggle multiple tasks on a single day can benefit from the Expert's flexible layout. For example, an electrical contractor can use the rear doors and sliding side doors to load and unload bulky conduit bundles while keeping tools within easy reach thanks to optional interior shelving kits. Delivery services: The high roof option adds an extra foot of interior height, allowing taller packages to be stacked without damaging contents. Landscaping crews: The robust rear suspension handles uneven terrain, while the optional 4-wheel-drive version provides extra traction on muddy or gravelly paths.
